hitting newsstands across the US

LAS VEGAS – August 14, 2006 - Strip Las Vegas Magazine made its mark in Las Vegas when it debuted in January 2006. The monthly glossy publication that features the women who make Las Vegas sizzle, has gained national attention and is now available across the United States and Canada.

“Each month we put our heart and soul into making a classy magazine that gives people insight into Las Vegas and the people who make it happen,” said Publisher Scott Santos. “That the magazine has been embraced so quickly is mind blowing – there is definitely a niche for the publication.”

There are 450 Hudson News stores located in airport newsstands and bookstores that will distribute Strip Las Vegas- giving the magazine a chance to reach the 1.4 billion customers who purchase publications at Hudson News each year. Additionally, Strip Las Vegas is now available in outlets ranging from Barnes & Noble to Tower Records through distribution powerhouses Anderson News Company, The News Group and Ingram Periodicals. The word-of-mouth has spread quickly thanks to the tremendous turnout the magazine has received at its monthly cover parties – from Ghostbar to JET; the parties have caught on as THE place to be whether you are a Las Vegas local or just a visitor.

The Strip Las Vegas girls, along with the magazine’s staff will be celebrating the release of the September issue on August 21st at JET Nightclub with cover girl Stefani Morgan, Julia Bond, and Elizabeth Grantham from Norbert Aleman’s “Crazy Girls.”

Stefani Morgan, a Vivid contract girl, was born and raised in Riverside, CA where she began modeling at 19. A self-proclaimed “girly-girl” and tomboy, Morgan is a born entertainer who loves to sing, dance, and enjoys reading poetry and short stories.
